

Letters, Faxes & E-Mail - Pine Lake sets good example

BYLINE: JAN R. COSTELLO; For the Journal-Constitution

DATE: May 13, 1999

PUBLICATION: The Atlanta Journal and The Atlanta Constitution

EDITION: Home; The Atlanta Constitution

SECTION: Editorial

PAGE: A18

At the risk of introducing common sense into the Pine Lake ticketing debate, I would like to point out that the Constitution editorial board is defending a bunch of whiners who would not have a problem if they obeyed the traffic laws in the first place ("Bucking Pine Lake's cash cow," Editorial, Tuesday). I salute Pine Lake for being one of the few places in the metro area where one can drive without being passed by speeders. I encourage all jurisdictions to follow Pine Lake's example and aggressively enforce the speed limit. And to the gentlemen who are protesting such enforcement: Pay your tickets, and either abide by the law or work to change it.

JAN R. COSTELLO

Costello, a free-lance writer who often drives through Pine Lake, lives in Stone Mountain.